A description of the planet Tatooine from the Star Wars film

As I step out of my spacecraft, a wave of heat brushes through my hair. Stretching ahead of me is a vast planet of blistering sand. Thanks to the two steaming suns, the planet has become a dusty piece of terrain. I look behind me and spot a village with small, round, boulder-like huts. Before me are 2 glaring suns that are sinking to the horizon.

At night the bright boiling desert becomes a dull nightmare. The thin cold air lashes me, freezing me stiff. Some sand to my left swiftly moves around me forming a sandstorm. It whirls and dances quickly as if the grains were having a competition.

By Mae